One of the best pure pitchers in the Northwoods League, Gustafson is a soft throwing lefty who excels in locating all four of his pitches. We have seen him twice so far this season, and fared rather well both times, with 12 H and 5 R in 11 IP. Against righties, Gustafson will live on the outer half, almost never running inside. He keeps the fastball middle and up to allow the changeup to work right off the same path until it dives just at or below the outside corner, earning an insane whiff rate of 59% to righties. Unable to do this to lefties, he will instead increase breaking ball usage, with curves earlier and sliders later in the count. The best way to attack Gustafson is early in the count, where hitters are at .545 (6-for-11) against first pitch fastballs. Complete mixed bag with two strikes, can attack well with any of his pitches and keeps hitters off balance.
