Comments

Throws both a straight four-seam and a sinker, likes to spot the four seam at the letters to build off a steady diet of 73% sliders. The slider has become his most reliable pitch (67% strikes), leaving the fastball as a change of pace (40%) strikes, making him the reverse of traditional pitching. Despite the arsenal, throws at a normal 3/4 arm slot. Slider has tight, cutting action, not loopy like most breaking balls, making it almost more of a cutter at times. This uniqueness has allowed Elias to thrive in the back end of the Madison bullpen.
