Comments

Coming out of Wright State and committed to Illinois, Tabeling is a right hander with a strong fastball and devastating breaking balls. Before joining the Dock Spiders this summer, he threw 15.2 innings in the New England Collegiate League, posting an ERA of 1.72. His fastball will sit in the low 90s, but has been hit around well in the past, with a BAA of .485 (16-for-33) and a very low whiff rate of 7%. Curveball and Slider both have very significant sharp break, and he generally spots the pitches well. They have been super effective, posting an overall whiff rate of 75% (15 whiffs in 20 swings) and a BAA of .077 (1-for-13), with the only hit being a March 30 slider left right in the middle of the zone. As a pitcher who throws hard with great break, Tabeling will get wild at times, having a walk rate of 13% across all leagues in 2022, and his Synergy chart is one of the widest I've seen.
